About RMA26

Tarndanya (Adelaide) 21–24 OCT 2026

Co-hosted by the Australian College of Rural and Remote Medicine (ACRRM) and the Rural Doctors Association of Australia (RDAA), the Rural Medicine Australia (RMA) conference is the premier national conference for rural and remote medicine.

RMA26 will take place in Tarndanya (Adelaide) from Wednesday 21 to Saturday 24 October 2026, uniting more than 800 rural doctors, medical students, educators and health professionals for an immersive three day program of learning, collaboration and community. The conference delivers rich professional development, forward thinking education, and countless opportunities to connect with peers from across Australia.

Partner with the most anticipated rural medicine event of the year.

Why partner with us?

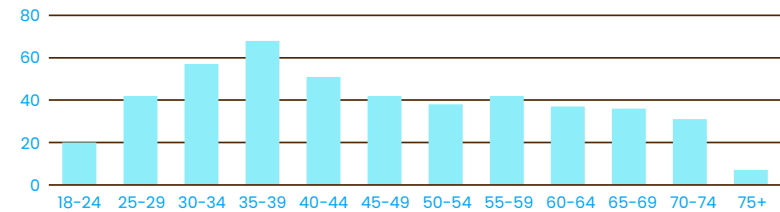

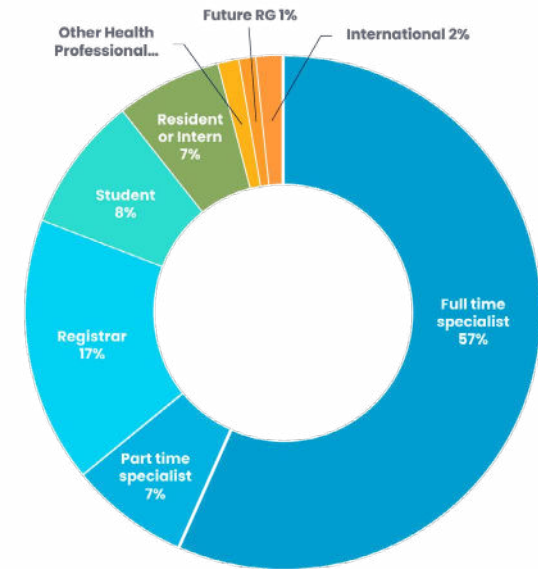

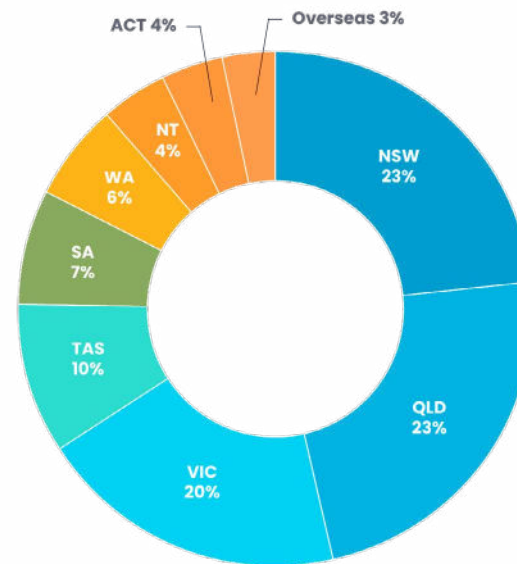

-  Connect directly with rural clinicians and decision makers who shape care models, service adoption and patient outcomes across Australia.
-  Position your organisation alongside trusted leaders in rural medicine and demonstrate your commitment to improving health in remote communities.
-  Shape conversations, share insights and contribute to the future direction of rural healthcare alongside Australia's most passionate advocates.
-  Build meaningful relationships with delegates who value genuine partnerships – clinicians, educators, trainees and health leaders working at the frontline.
-  Demonstrate your organisation's commitment to strengthening rural and remote communities by backing the people delivering essential care.

As an RMA26 partner, you'll connect with over 800 delegates, comprised of...

-  Medical students
-  Prevocational doctors
-  Doctors-in-training
-  Rural Generalists
-  Educators
-  Academics
-  Rural Consultant Specialists
-  The next generation of medical professionals and change makers
-  Industry experts and stakeholders
-  Hospital decision makers

Audience data is based on historical attendance of RMA conferences.
